PASTOR'S NOTES

BACK ON THE SHELF

For the past fifteen minutes I've been sitting here trying to figure out how to report that my mono has relapsed. Last weekend my symptoms returned and the doctor prescribed another month of rest. An obvious question is, "I thought you said you were getting better — what happened?" The answer is, "I don't know." I didn't think I was overdoing it when I returned to work part-time last week, so I'm a bit confused what caused this. Nevertheless, I am optimistic that the end is still in sight and that I'll be well enough to return to work in late June or early July. One of my regrets is that I will miss out on the first month of planning for our new church facility. However, I know that everything is in the hands of good and qualified people.

I so much appreciate the get-well wishes that you have passed along via Diane. It is gratifying to know that you are concerned about my health. The truth is, my illness is at least as hard on her as it is on me. So, the next time you see her, please take a minute to find out how she is doing.

You guys are really good at getting important things accomplished while I'm away. During my first month of sick leave you purchased a church. During my second month, would you mind hiring a Youth Pastor? Thanks!

I AM THANKFUL for the wife who says it's hot dogs tonight, because she is home with me, and not out with someone else.

...for the husband who is on the sofa being a couch potato, because he is home with me and not out at the bars.

...for the teenager who is complaining about doing dishes, because it means she is at home, not on the streets.

...for the taxes I pay, because it means I am employed.

...for the mess to clean after a party, because it means I have been surrounded by friends.

...for the clothes that fit a little too snug, because it means I have enough to eat.

...for my shadow that watches me work, because it means I am out in the sunshine.

...for a lawn that needs mowing, windows that need cleaning, and gutters that need fixing, because it means I have a home.

...for all the complaining I hear about the government, because it means we have freedom of speech

...for the parking spot I find at the far end of the parking lot, because it means I am capable of walking and I have been blessed with transportation.

...for my huge heating bill, because it means I am warm.

...for the lady behind me in church who sings off key, because it means I can hear.

...for the pile of laundry and ironing, because it means I have clothes to wear.

...for weariness and aching muscles at the end of the day, because it means I have been capable of working hard.

...for the alarm that goes off in the early morning hours, because it means I am alive...
