

PASTOR'S NOTES

UPDATE ON "NEXT STEP" (submitted by our Head Elder, Bud Dickerson)

Just over two months ago, the church took time one weekend to study and plan the next steps in Sunnyside's life. At the end of the weekend, a group of 10 members were selected to pull together the main ideas that were gleaned from the experience. This leadership group met several times and here are the three main areas for emphasis which came from the weekend. Included here are the suggestions which were presented to the Board.

Areas of emphasis:

1. Small Group Ministries - Needs a Director
2. Community Service - Needs a Director or Committee
3. Church Family Needs

Young adults; single adults; single adults with children; seniors; multi-generational families with small, middle, older children. In other words, everyone should be part of a specialized ministry.

THE LAST WORD

3 WAYS TO KILL THE BIGGEST VOICE OF DOUBT LEADERS HEAR

by Jon Acuff

There is a voice of doubt every leader hears at the start of a new project. The specifics of the project don't matter. The confidence level of the leader does not matter. The level of risk involved does not matter. This voice always sneaks in, just as you are about to launch something you feel God is calling you to. What does the voice say? Simple:

"Who are you to do that?"

Six small words; one big question. Who are you to do that? Who are you to think you can accomplish that? Who are you to think you are talented enough to do that? Who are you to think that hasn't already been done by a million people who are smarter than you? Who are you to think the world needs that?

The aim of this voice is to get you engaged and entangled with it and eventually respond, "I am nobody. I shouldn't even try. I give up."

At least that was what I felt when I wrote my book Quitter. My first book, Stuff Christians Like, was a satire. It was a humor book, and as I stared down the manuscript for my next book, the voice of doubt grew loud.

"Who are you to write Quitter? Who are you to think the world needs another leadership or motivational book? Who are you to think you can make the jump from the Christian inspiration shelf to the business shelf? Who are you to do that?"

Though I felt this was the book God called me to write, though I knew this was the next book, that voice grew loud. So what did I do in that moment? What should you do in that moment when you hear that voice? There are three ways to kill that voice of doubt:...To finish reading this article, please go to: http://www.catalystspace.com/content/print/3_ways_to_kill_the_biggest_voice_of_doubt_leaders_hear/
